The Power to Question

BACKGROUND

TNP1 (transition protein 1), also known as TP1 or STP1 (spermatid nuclear transition protein 1), is a 55 amino acid nuclear protein that belongs to the nuclear transition protein family. Expressed specifically in the testis, TNP1 is a spermatid-specific protein that functions as a basic chromosomal transition protein during the conversion of nucleosomal chromatin to the compact, non-nucleosomal form found in sperm nuclei. During spermatogensis, TNP1, a product of the haploid genome, replaces histone and is subsequently replaced by protamines in mature sperm. Although TNP1 is present for only a short amount of time during sperm maturation, it is thought to play an essential role in male fertility.
